After studying at a fine art school in Poland, graduating from University, and undertaking internships in New York, I am now freelancing in London, and ready to tackle a full time job.

My passion for design spawned from a very young age. At just 16 I had a designed a high street billboard and an ident for channel 4. I paid my way through university by exhibiting my graphic artwork in bars.

In my spare time, I enjoy Silk Screening, I like to attend independent theatre productions, and play badminton.

Over the past 3 years, I have found that my main inspiration comes from fashion design, and I am currently collaborating with a number of fashion designers to make unique clothing designs and accessories in my own time.

As my references show, I am a reliable, outgoing and a friendly individual who is not afraid to get an idea heard.

SANGA

July 20th, 2011

To whom it may concern,

Sam Hardy interned and was a paid freelancer at SANG A Inc from December 2010 to February 2011. During this time, he contributed to various graphic design projects. He helped create unique collaboration pieces, design pages for the website, and develop graphics for promotional flyers. Sam is very talented and understands our brand aesthetic very well.

In addition to being talented, Sam is a joy to work with. At all times I have found him to be dependable, reliable, hard-working, conscientious, and courteous. He always gave his best and tackled all assignments with dedication and a smile.

Sam Hardy was a pleasure to have at SANG A Inc. He is a team player and would make a great asset to any organization.

Yours sincerely,

Sang A Im-Propp

Dear Sir or Madam

Sam Hardy undertook 6 months work placement from May to October 2009. In his time here he successfully worked as Junior Graphic Designer. As creative director of the company I was pleased to oversee Sam's placement within the company.

Sam worked on a number of projects whilst here which included illustration, article design, photo retouching and advertisement conceptual design (to name a few). In doing so, Sam showed the ability to complete work to a good standard with a technical understanding and attention to detail which I would normally only expect from somebody who had been in the job for considerably longer.

Sam displayed all of the positive aspects you would look for in an employee, with good punctuality, excellent ability to listen and carry through instructions, being smart and well presented and most of all being an enjoyable person to be around.

I wish Sam all the luck in the future and I highly recommend him for future employment.

Yours Sincerely

Pete Turner
